“The Mexican capital, though, is attracting pilgrims of another kind: travelers seeking some of the world’s best cuisine, museums and forward-thinking design. With young people from around Latin America and Spain streaming into the city, and the Mexican peso hitting record lows against the dollar, the city — daunting and endless as it is — radiates energy.”
Mexico City, Mexico
A metropolis that has it all. ~ NYT, Jan. 7, 2016

“The Mexican capital, though, is attracting pilgrims of another kind: travelers seeking some of the world’s best cuisine, museums and forward-thinking design. With young people from around Latin America and Spain streaming into the city, and the Mexican peso hitting record lows against the dollar, the city — daunting and endless as it is — radiates energy.”

The Mexican Moment: The Rise of Architecture’s Latest Design Capital
~ ArchDaily, Dec. 14, 2014

“Mexican tourism… has changed; it was the ancient pyramids and sandy beaches of the country that once drew visitors to it. Today however, architecture and design—and food—prevail….The capital of Mexico is the country’s mecca for both of these contemporary attractions.”
Jose Castillo
arg911

Juan Pablo Serrano
Serrano Monjaraz

Pabellon Cultural de la Republica

Iztacalco Social Housing

Javier Sanchez
JSa

Hotel Carlota

Summer 2016
Mexico City
Summer 2016

Mexico City
Summer 2016
Mexico City
Summer 2016
Mexico City
Summer 2016
Mexico City
Summer 2016
Mixing the Mix
Summer 2016
Mixing the Mix

DENSITY  DIVERSITY  EFFICIENCY
SESSION B: JUNE 6 - JULY 30  (8 WEEK STUDIO)

RESEARCH:
1 WEEK TRAVEL TO MEXICO CITY
1 WEEK HOSTING IBERO STUDENTS IN CHICAGO

DESIGN:
6 WEEKS DESIGN WORK  (M, W, F ~ 3-4 hours of studio time)

COST OF TRAVEL:
$300 - $400 FLIGHT ROUNDTRIP
$100 - $140 HOTEL FOR 1 WEEK
$150 FOOD & DRINK
$50 TRANSPORTATION (VIA UBER)
Summer 2016
Mexico City